SIZE. TOUGHNESS. IMPACT.

Armond Williams is a physical, athletic big man who dominates the glass and finishes plays with force. A JUCO grinder turned Division I scorer, Armond brings size, energy, and rebounding instincts to any frontcourt.

PLAYER BIOGRAPHY

Armond Williams is a powerful 6'9" forward/center out of East St. Louis, Illinois, with a game built around rebounding, rim protection, and interior scoring. His path to the professional ranks ran through the junior college circuit before he emerged as a double-digit scorer at Dillard University, and he has carried that production directly into his rookie professional season.

After starring at Lewis & Clark Community College — where he averaged 12.0 points, 7.7 rebounds, and shot 66.9% from the field — Armond transferred to Dillard University, where he spent two seasons as a featured scorer and rebounder, averaging in double figures both years while developing a reliable perimeter jumper (career-high 41.2% from three in 2023-24).

In his first professional season split between the Little Rock Lightning and Ads Sentinels (TBL), Armond has averaged 12.9 points, 6.4 rebounds, and shot better than 50% from the field across 14 games — production that has him firmly on the radar for opportunities at the next level.
