NASHVILLE MADE. BUCKET GETTER.

Jayden Lockett is a shifty combo guard with a scorer's mentality and the defensive activity to match. From a breakout senior season at Fisk to a hot start with the Little Rock Lightning, Jayden has consistently found ways to put the ball in the basket at every level.

PLAYER BIOGRAPHY

Jayden Lockett is a 6'3" combo guard out of Nashville, Tennessee, whose path to professional basketball ran through the JUCO ranks at Columbia State, a stop at Benedict College, and two standout seasons at Fisk University. A natural scorer with the ability to play both guard spots, Jayden has steadily built his game from complementary contributor to primary offensive option.

Jayden's breakout came as a senior at Fisk in 2023-24, where he exploded for 17.0 points, 6.6 rebounds, 3.0 assists, and 2.7 steals per game, earning All-GCAC First Team and GCAC All-Defensive Team honors. He turned professional shortly after, playing for the Nashville Aces (ABA) and Nashville Aviators (MBL) before signing with the Little Rock Lightning (TBL).

In his 2026 season with the Lightning, Jayden has continued to produce at a high level, averaging 16.3 points, 4.7 rebounds, 2.2 assists, and 2.7 steals per game across 9 starts while shooting 51.6% from the field – further proof of his scoring instincts and two-way impact.
